Description:

This lecture provides a through description of the English language on the levels of its phonology, morphology, lexicology, syntax and semantics. The central questions we will address in this lecture are: what are the typical properties of the English language and what do we need to know about its structure in order to teach it and/or work with it on a professional level?

For a better understanding of the present state of the English language, this lecture makes occasional reference to its history and contrasts English with German where this helps to highlight the characteristics of the English language. The focus throughout the lecture is on Standard British English.

Course requirements:

In order to receive credits for this lecture, students will have to pass a written test. This covers the contents of the lecture.
