Course description:

Your aim will be to extend the range of structures and vocabulary that you have at your disposal when writing in a formal academic style. You will be writing short pieces (150 – 200 words) each week and will write two in-class essays and regular shorter pieces.

Grading for the course will be predominantly on these two essays, each of which will be written in a 2-hour class session. You will prepare an outline at home and must accurately list all your sources. Each essay will be 500-600 words in length. Each essay will count for 40% of the grade and class work and participation will count for 20% of the grade.

You will have to bring a monolingual dictionary with you to each session.
