Course description:

A glance at bookstore shelves or publishers' websites will confirm that these genres are widely read by young people nowadays and that many of the major authors are British or American. During this course you will take a look at a couple of recent works of your own choosing and will develop lesson plans and activities based on them. You will also work on further refining your own stylistic range.

For those of you who have no background in these genres, a brief list of recent works suitable for teenage readers will be available and you will be expected to have read at least one suitable work before the course starts. Participants wishing to work on graphic literature will be very welcome.

For course participants who are interested there will be an excursion to the Seiteneinsteiger Lesefest für Kinder und Jugendliche on October 29th and 30th. You can take a look at their programme and find out about the Lesenetz at

<http://www.seiteneinsteiger-hamburg.de/>

We will also take a look at Hamburg libraries catering for children and young people.
