In Classroom Contexts B, we will undertake a series of exercises with educational texts in order to become familiar with the conventions of academic writing. By examining scholarly materials having to do with the politics of and policies for teaching English, we will develop independent perspectives on pedagogy as well as improve our English language and intercultural competences. We will also assemble a final reading list / annotated bibliography, to be submitted at the end of the course. Goals for Module IAA35 / English Language Skills A and B / Classroom Contexts A and B 1.) Use of correct, flexible English – both passive and active. 2.) Development of cultural knowledge with regard to a broad spectrum of English-speaking countries, especially concerning social debates and education policy. 3.) Development of an awareness of language differences in heterogenous groups as well as a demonstration of linguistic and intercultural competences using suitable aids. While Classroom Contexts A features weekly oral activities with a few written responses, Classroom Context B features weekly written activities with a few oral responses.
