Description:

This course is designed to help students with a concentration in Linguistics, but is open to all students who are interested in improving their skills for academic writing. Linguistics topics will be addressed only briefly - while the instructor is qualified to evaluate and comment on the content of such essays, the students are responsible for preparing material etc. as needed. Instead, this course will deal specifically with the expectations from research papers and academic essays and the requirements which must be met for success in those: structure, style and presentation. Specifically, we will focus on the crucial steps of drafting and revision.

Assignments will vary, with the aim of building up from an initial idea all the way to a final term paper. Main sources are: Booth, W., G.G. Colomb & J.M. Williams. 1995. The Craft of Research.
