Description:

The last 30 years of TEFL (teaching English as a foreign language) have witnessed many new developments in the research and methodology for language learning which have in turn specifically influenced the practice of “teaching” English. This course aims to look at “new” and current trends in the field (TBL, Lexical Approach, etc.), assess and evaluate them and their implementation (incl. materials) and finally apply/integrate them into students teaching practices.

Students will be required to do reading/research, maintain a record/journal of their thoughts and prepare, plan and carry out a lesson (or part of a lesson) based on a methodology/approach of their choice.
