Course description:

This course will focus on essay writing, particularly of the type done by columnists on current topics for U.S. newsweeklies. Each week a different essay taken from a newsweekly will provide the basis for class discussion and analysis, after which an essay will be written at home on a related subject. The class period will be used to discuss and analyze the essays written by columnists and the work done by students. On average, two to three hours of homework will be required each week.

Written and Oral Work:

At least three essays (ca. 550-650 words each), six essay outlines and nine oral quizzes.
