This seminar prepares students for their final exam and their BA/MA theses. They will be given the opportunity to revise their knowledge about British literature and culture and to find topics for their oral exam. They will also be introduced to the structure of an oral exam and some of the general requirements. They will be given suggestions about how best to organize and prepare for the exam. The meetings will also be used as a forum for the preparation for and the presentation of students' BAs/MAs (e.g. in forms of short presentations and discussions). Finally, the Colloquium will grant them the chance to practically test their knowledge (mock exam), present their work and exchange ideas with their peers along with testing their skills in constructive criticism.
