Daniel Brown is Professor of English at the University of Southampton. Having published extensively on Gerard Manley Hopkins (e.g. Hopkins’s Idealism, 1997), his recent publications include journal articles on science and romantic poetry as well as a monograph related to one of his ongoing research projects: The Poetry of Victorian Scientists: Style, Science and Nonsense (2013). Currently, he is writing a book on the relations between Victorian professional research science and women.
