

Location

The conference will take place at the Warburg-Haus in Hamburg.

Address:

Warburg-Haus

Heilwigstraße 116

20249 Hamburg, Germany

The venue is best reached by public transport. The nearest subway station is Kellinghusenstraße, which is approximately a 10-minute walk from the Warburg-Haus. The station is served by both the U1 and U3 lines.

About the Warburg-Haus

The Kulturwissenschaftliche Bibliothek Warburg (K.B.W., Warburg Library of Cultural Studies) at no. 116 Heilwigstraße was built from 1925 to 1926. Designed to fit into a narrow plot directly beside the private residence of the Warburgs at house number 114, where the library along with improvised lecture rooms and office had previously been housed, the new building was to provide an adequate and representative space for the now well-established institution. The K.B.W. was opened on 1 May 1926 with a speech given by Ernst Cassirer, marking the completion of its development from a specialised book collection run by a student and private scholar to a (semi-)public library of cultural studies.

The Warburg-Haus in Hamburg understands itself as a driving force contributing to Hamburg's active scientific and cultural landscape. It is an institution of the Aby-Warburg-Stiftung in close collaboration with Universität Hamburg, and receives funding from the Hamburg Ministry for Science, Research and Equality (Behörde für Wissenschaft, Forschung und Gleichstellung). The Warburg-Haus is dedicated to conducting top research in the humanities and the field of cultural studies and simultaneously aims to reach the general public through the socio-political relevance of its themes and methods.

More information: <https://www.warburg-haus.de/en>