

Universität Hamburg
DER FORSCHUNG | DER LEHRE | DER BILDUNG

Allgemeines
Vorlesungswesen

Vortrag VII: Criminal punishment as a form of protecting human rights: the environmental issue

With the current environmental disasters occurred in Brazil and the resulting human rights violations (intergenerational, social, economic and gender issues), it is necessary to reflect on the role of criminal law in resolving this conflict, asking us if and what contribution the punishment by this means can make to the solution of the conflict or the reduction of the damages occurred.

Chiavelli Facenda Falavigno

Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure Professor at Federal University of Santa Catarina (UFSC) – Brazil

Freitag 11.10.2019

18 Uhr Geomatikum, Bundesstraße 55 – 7. Etage Raum 740

Kontakt

Renata de Carvalho do Val

Lateinamerika-Studien

Anna-Lena Glesinski

Institut für Romanistik

Livia de Souza Lima

Wirtschafts- und Sozialwissenschaften

Institut für Romanistik
Lateinamerika-Studien

Die Vortragsreihe wird gefördert durch den
Frauenförderfonds der Universität Hamburg